Parents Right to Know

Parents of children attending a Title I school have the right to know the professional qualifications of the classroom teachers and paraprofessionals who instruct their child. Contact Williams Academy for more information.

Parent Involvement

Research has shown that children are more successful when parents are involved in their education. You can help your child by volunteering, helping with homework, reading to your child and talking with your child's teacher. Each Title I school will develop a School Parent Compact. You can help by ensuring that homework is complete and your child attends school every day.

How Can I Get Involved?

Keep in contact with your child's teacher through telephone, conversations, or email. Participate in school-based events that are intended for attendance of families. Serve as a role model, showing your child that you support his/her progress in school. Keep your child's teacher informed about events in your child's life that may affect his/her performance in school. Support your child's extra-curricular activities. Discuss ideas for parent involvement with your child's teacher and parent organization.
